THE TERM GONE BY

The most dreaded task as the Editor In-Chief of the school newsletter is not meeting the deadlines week after week or recording the history of the school as objectively and accurately as one can but penning down the 'Term Gone By'. It is a mammoth task in itself and no matter how meticulously one works at it, something is bound to be left out and even if it isn't, which is an accomplishment in itself, it is humanly impossible to say all that is there to be said in such a limited space.

I have traveled down the memory lane so many times over the past few days in an effort to recount all that has happened in the span of last 2 months and I am surprised at my own ability to look back at it all and smile. As testing as the term might have been, we lived to see the light of the day.

Hardly had our muscles loosened up after returning from the tremendously tiring trek when were snow-balled into a back to back series of events. But there is something about all the energy that flows on the campus during such times; it's infectious and we love every bit of it!

We welcomed the newbies to the Qui family and danced happily at the thought of being promoted to the next class; ready to parade the campus with new books, shiny shoes and crisp uniforms. Determined to pack according to time table, complete assignments on time and revise everyday; we were the good students... for a change.

A few of us then boarded the train to Ajmer for MCGS MUN'18 while the others stayed and practised till sun down for the 4th SelaQui Invitational Tennis and Golf Tournament wherein the SeQuins showcased an exemplary performance, making everyone proud. Our very own Anning Morang, lifted the Invitational Golf trophy and made history. Shortly thereafter the Inter House photography competition was held and aspiring photographers could be seen looking at the world through their lenses. Soon enough, the much awaited QMUN '18 was upon us and everyone looked pepped up in their formals, ready to put their best foot forward.

The Inter-House Cricket tournament came up next and the House flags waved in the air. Akash House emerged the winner once again and Akashians boasted about the trophy getting too comfortable in their house and hence not wanting to leave. (jealous much?) Labour Day was celebrated to honour the ones working all day and making everything seems easy and effortless. The cricket fever hadn't left SeQuins when the 4th SelaQui T-20 Cricket Invitational Tournament began with our team reaching the semifinals for the first time. After exhibiting their skills on the fields, the SeQuins took to the MPH and displayed their excellent reasoning skills in the Inter House Hindi Debate.

Girls were seen lazing around in their newly renovated common room at the sight of which, the boys turned into green eyed monsters. Around the same time, we welcomed Dr. Col. Atul Bhandari aka the Sr. Master. The students going to NASA and Spain were seen running from pillar to post, literally to get their paper work in order. Inter house Table Tennis, Inter House Sculpture, Cultural evening and various council meetings happened over the span of the term as well. The infamous Cap Test 1 tip-toed into our lives and the entire population of the school set their alarms a little earlier to make it to the morning prep on time. Seeing heads drop and hit the desks was a rather common sight but helped one surf the Review Meeting tide easier which gripped the SeQuins yet again. Nights and days were spent reflecting upon the self and filling the goal setting forms.

Just when one thought it was all over, the final blow had SeQuins diving into the pool and cutting through the waters to score extra points for the house in the Swimming competition. Out of the pool and lining outside the barber's room and coming out looking more handsome than ever (no, seriously!) ... the SeQuin then splurged on the book fair. Left exhausted, the SeQuins now await scrumptious meal at the Headmaster's residence.

With this, we wish everyone a cool summer vacation. You have earned it!
